Out of town automobilists, bevisiting New York City should, for their own welfare, write to the Police Commissioner here for the traine rules and regulations. This city has an enormous amount of traffic to be handled, and an out of town visitor can not know the ways of travel without first receiving the rules governing the same. I have noticed epeatedly out of town cars breaking traffic laws and being held up the police in charge. As a rule the officer merely warns and di-rects the driver, but this all causes unnecessary bother and dela-

This crossing of tracks diagonally is poorspractice and shows bad driving sense. Slow down and cross these spots in the proper manner and at a low speed.

I have reason to believe the police will probably become active soon in enforcing the law calling for the rear ! cense plate to be made readable a distance of fifty feet at night. Many automobilists think that because they have a red light showing in the rear and a while light facing the number they are complying with the law. I would advise everyone to look at his rear license pad and

The youngster, who defeated Vardon and Ray for his title in the memorable play-off at Brookline last year, won't encounter any internationfessionals in this country, ninety-seven in number. That the youth who defeated England's champions at Brookline will not successfully defend his title at Midlothian is the unanimous opinion of professional golfers around this city. They all admit Ouimet's great skill, but in the next breath they would have you believe that the youngster's victory over Vardon and Ray was in the nature of a fluke. The professionals, to substantiate their assertion, point to Ouimet's miserable showing in the two English championships this year. They reason that the national champion now knows what it is to slump in title tournaments, and this increased worry and responsibility will detract from his best form when it comes time to defend his honors at Midlo-
